As a past Honor Society member at community college, I have worked with Special Olympics and have assisted the athletes of sporting events to make sure the event ran smoothly. During the pandemic when there were no sporting events, I communicated with athletes over the phone and e-mail to create an article about their experiences. Through Special Olympics I have developed communication skills.

Being a past officer on the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society at my community college required me to work in an eight person team for the entirety of the academic year. As the officer team, our group developed multiple projects aimed at improving our college campus and community. These projects required weekly meetings to collaborate and share ideas.
